

Sevenoaks Greensand Commons Project

Consultation Survey Results    May – September 2017

Supported by
The National Lottery®
through the Heritage Lottery Fund

Introduction

In preparation for the Stage 1 Heritage Lottery Application (HLF) for the Greensand Commons Project there has been an enormous amount of work undertaken in the gathering information on what local people and organisations have told us is needed. During the Development Stage these ideas and peoples thoughts have been further explored.

This has been undertaken by carrying out a survey which has been distributed to approximately 2,500 properties close to the project sites, as well as being available online and at libraries. This was backed up with individual commons walkabouts on each of the 8 commons in July and August, with follow up walkabouts, again on all 8 commons, in September.

On the walks we have had a mix of people some of whom have known the commons for years and many who had never visited the commons before.

We also had quite a few people who having attended a walk on their local common that were then keen to join other consultation walks on other commons. It is been great to see that people have enjoyed the walks so much and it has created a real interest generated a desire to visit the wider suite of project sites.

The consultation has also been promoted at public events in each of the three cluster areas of commons; Westerham to the west, at their May Day Beating of the Bounds Event; in Seal to the east at the Romshed Open Farm Day, and also at the Underriver Village Festival; and central Sevenoaks sites in the town centre at the Sevenoaks Town Council Charity Fair, and also at Knole Park where in addition to consultation and various activities, we also trialled a joint walk with National Trust Volunteer walk leaders taking in Knole Park and Fawke Common.

159 people have completed the consultation survey. A great outcome has been that 73% of these were interested in receiving further information about the project. A number of individuals have also agreed to contribute to commons friends of groups, stating what skills and knowledge they could bring to such a group.

As consultation forms have been distributed either via leafleting or at public events, and generally being in and around the commons there has been an overwhelming interest in seeing the Sevenoaks Greensand Commons Project as an opportunity to make sensitive and appropriate improvements to the Commons.

Also encouraging is the interest in community engagement, including the provision of education for children and young people, building on, supporting and broadening local interest in these fantastic sites.

Thank you to everyone who has contributed to this process.

The information gathered through this will inform the Stage 2 HLF funding application that will be made to the Heritage Lottery Fund in March 2017.

I use the bridleways for cycling (MTB) . In many places these are almost impassable, which is not good for the horse riders either. Path MR425 is a great example of how it should be done. I would like to see more of the paths allow cycling. There is no problem with mixed use, people just need to be courteous. Paths are not heavily used so there really is no problem to allow cycling on more of these paths.

Clearing scrub around ancient trees, not everywhere. I would like to see path improvements in some areas i.e. steep slopes

History and archaeology of them

New trackways for all users not just walkers

I dislike the rubbish and dog poo

I like the flora especially - I also visit more in summer

Only slight improvement to tracks and paths please

I like both dark wooded and open views - perhaps a more 'mixed' approach would be good. Some paths very good - some overgrown.

Only sometimes difficult to find way around. Only some improvement to paths and trackways. Questions4a and 4b • Our observations indicate that the commons are very heavily used by walkers, dog walkers, riders and cyclists, most of whom seem to drive to the area. • On the whole we feel that the commons are fine as they are but some discrete way-marking and management for the benefit of wildlife might be an improvement. Some of the bridleways in particular become very deep and muddy in winter so walkers have made alternative paths in places. Perhaps the worst stretches could be redone to improve the surface? Some management in order to establish habitats to encourage a wider range of flora and fauna would be of benefit. • Leaflets to explain the history, use, ownership and management of the commons, as well as the geology, flora and fauna of the area and its conservation significance might be welcome. Details of circular walks might also be given. Leaflets could be displaced in discreet dispensers at strategic points and be available for a nominal charge. Guided walks may be an option too.

Consideration of the following might be useful:- Minimal sensitive management to maintain peace & quiet for wildlife
- Low key renovation & marking of paths with leaflets/map available - Avoidance of 'events' causing influx of visitors along narrow lanes already dangerous, with traffic of all sorts, and with little parking available. – Selected areas for clearance (however achieved) for special flora/fauna would need protection from visitors & especially their dogs which currently appear to be largely off leads & out of control.

Limited surface improvements would benefit all users

Horse riders need access

I do not enjoy the increasing use of the footpaths by cyclists

So much of Sevenoaks common is shrubland that I cannot easily walk in it.

Walk between commons via other land such as National trust. Knole

Taking photos

Request for improved signage on tracks and pathways

---

I dislike that sometimes paths & tracks are too overgrown to walk down

No more unnecessary signs. Leave the present diversity of woodland. leave views and paths as they are Better access for multiple users. As a walker and jogger I like to meet riders and cyclists as it is reassuring to meet others esp when I am alone. I do not agree with unnecessary segregating paths for different users on commons, only where absolutely necessary. As a rider I find many areas so limited as there is an absence of safe circular offroad paths in the whole South east. As a cyclist you feel unwelcome, but my children cannot ride on roads and there is little choice for families with bikes that provides pleasant rides (perimeters of public parks are not appealing). As a walker I have greater freedom, but I can't use it as it is hard to cover the ground in the time I have free.

I like the fact that paths & tracks are not made 'smart' like some parkland

I do not think paths necessarily need *widening*, just the surfaces improved where drainage is poor e.g. Carter's Hill bridleway. Path MR425 has been done very well; this is a good example of how the surfaces can be improved. Please do NOT use sand (as has been done on Raspit hill), this does not make it any easier to use.

Improve views where there is one, i.e. viewing spots. Do not open up footpaths/bridleways as then it is too hot in summer.

Scrape mud off paths - it is solid underneath

Clear fallen trees from footpaths

Maybe guided walks and maybe bat walks etc.

Where appropriate only for widening

Widen - where appropriate only.

Wider ways would be especially useful for people/families with buggies. Opening spaces as walking with a 2&4 year old is difficult with no pavements on roads in between the woods with cars that drive too fast.

Anything done with a light touch. Possibly carry out guided tours, possibly events & activities. Question 5 • The table of advantages and disadvantages are noted but I feel that the methods depend upon the circumstances and the advice of experienced personnel. However from the point of a user: • I feel that the question of whether or not to use hand machines for management is not straightforward and feel that there is a need for a sensible and pragmatic balance between available resources and the best possible ecological outcome irrespective of whether automated or hand methods are used for a specific task. • I feel that grazing of some of the areas by livestock may contribute to biodiversity and we would be pleased to see this if it is considered appropriate by wildlife advisors. Gates are not a particular issue for us.

Limited surface improvements and selective improved drainage of existing boggy paths

Small info boards with scannable links to web pages containing information about the area would be good. Also new info boards at the entrances to the commons

More Bridleways required

I would like the rapidly increasing use of the commons by off-road cyclists to be controlled. I am unhappy about their use of the commons; they have caused the rapid widening of existing footpaths and in a short time created many new paths, even building jumps and ramps. In my view the activity is causing erosion, is intrusive for plant and animal life and is a safety hazard for walkers, dogs or children. I would like the law regarding cyclists' use of the commons to be clarified; do they indeed have the right to cycle on the commons anywhere, or just on bridleways? If they should not by right be cycling on footpaths at all this needs to be enforced.

Remove quite a lot of the scrub, weed/tree clearance whilst also leaving general feeling of woodland and drainage in wet spots [referring to footpaths]

Remove invasive and controlled species. Control undergrowth where it obstructs paths. Tidy and repair car parks, provide and empty litter bins. Provide better surface where paths flood / deep mud. .

More information to be available- I did not know there were organised walks until I got tis today (19/07) when some of the walks had already happened.

Put a different surface on some of the paths, as some have become unsuitable for riding on. More suitable surfaces would be sand, grass or just soil. Some of these paths have stones on them.

All suggestions sound good! (But I have never visited).

Whatever the experts feel is right

Improve access for different and shared user groups to all commons.

Give more access to horse riders.

Entomologist - bioblitz, etc

Practical work, but only where I benefit as a cyclist and equestrian. Current commons friends groups are all biased towards ramblers and walkers and I have no interest in working for this aim, walkers are over catered for already, its family cyclists and equestrians who are currently unreasonably discriminated against.

The commons are exceptionally beautiful and important areas for everyone to enjoy. A small amount of work improving impassable muddy paths would go a long way. There is no real reason that cycling must only be allowed on paths suitable for horse riding (which need more clearance).

I like to walk my dog off lead which is not possible where livestock is present

These areas are great locations for walking and cycling and are great ways to keep fit whilst enjoying the countryside. I'd like to see 'off road' cycling welcomed at the commons.

Ludicrously insufficient space for more comments. This project is very dumbed-down, is outside the powers of SDC, will not solve the vast catalogue of problems associated with the commons (largely due to SDC's neglect of Statutory Duty over decades), and will largely benefit Kent Wildlife Trust, not the public for whom the commons are dedicated for recreation, and no other purpose.

S.V.O NT Volunteer and Park Walker

Proper signage of the footpaths are essential

I mainly use the woods. A key attraction to me is the 'natural' condition of the woods. I understand management is necessary and some paths and trails need better drainage, however these paths should not become 'sanitised'.

Livestock will limit who can use the space.

We missed all the local organized walks but have been walking around Crockham Hill and Westerham for more than 30 years. We do not like to feel that they will become manicured or overly managed.

Stop people adjacent to the commons tipping garden waste and therefore killing off the plants and orchids

It would be great to have a children's 'wild' playground this side/end of town Please!! All natural wood no plastic obviously!

Please note form received 13th July - difficult to attend walks in the past!

Don't know enough about the management methods for the Scrub, weed clearance methods to comment

I think that dogs on the common present a real management problem as most (probably 90+%) of people we encounter whilst out walking have dogs with them. Over the years we have had bites, knee injuries and tripping incidents as well as the more nuisance yapping round and jumping-up. Asking owners to keep their dogs on a lead if their pets don't come to heel reliably is often just met with a torrent of abuse. We have been told that they are "not your woods – why should I?" and that we should "walk in Knole Park as they require dogs on leads there" Because of this we are always on edge, avoid certain areas and carry a dog deterrent. I have to say that a few dog owners are very pleasant with well-behaved animals which respond well to their owners. We are not anti-dog by any means, we have had dogs of our own in the past and we appreciate that they can make excellent companions on a walk ... it's just that commons are very heavily used and that requires an appreciation of the needs of other users; good will, courtesy and consideration in such a crowded area! However we appreciate that safety of users is not part of the KWT questionnaire and is probably the responsibility of Sevenoaks DC. The other problem of more relevance to KWT is that ranging dogs (very much natural hunters) in such large numbers can be devastating to young dwelling wildlife. I'm not sure how this could be managed but various outdoor organisations have produced codes of conduct for dog walkers, including a request that dogs be kept on leads from March to July in important wildlife areas. (The leaflets include the responsibilities of the dog owners to other open space uses too). Maybe patrols or a conduct for dog owners might be included in the suggested guide? See the sections relating to dogs in public places, in Natural England's 'Countryside Code' leaflet. Also the Kennel Club, The National Farmers Union, The Ramblers Association, the National Trust, the RSPCA etc. all provide similar guidance for dog owners. We hope all of this helps.

Don't be so organising - just leave us in peace. Sevenoaks Town Council do a good job of looking after Sevenoaks Common. This is all a waste of money.

The plants and animals' continued existence & welfare depends on these valuable commons and will be lost if the commons are made too attractive to visitors. Careful management to prioritise the environment for the wildlife is essential. Disturbance by people attending events, picnics, walking groups, cyclists, noisy & out of control dogs will turn the commons into parks for people rather than areas of safety for rare and endangered wildlife.

All paths can be made enjoyable for all users to use if some surface and drainage improvements are made

While management by livestock sounds an attractive idea, I appreciate the natural feel of entering and leaving the unfenced & ungated commons which contrasts well with the usual gated/fenced fields one usually encounters.

I believe the woods are beautiful and unspoiled as they are and should remain so. However, they do get extremely overgrown and access to footpaths can be difficult.

Please refer to my comments about cyclists in section 5

I have not visited the commons for many years. improvements must be sensitively done. I would appreciate knowing what is planned, perhaps in a Sevenoaks Chronicle. email even better. Sadly my volunteering days are over - as is my ability to walk in the commons - or ride, as I used to - but hope they will be cared for so others may enjoy them in the future. Sorry i couldn't manage any of the events. I do wish you every success.

Please be aware of the great need for off-road access for horse riders

There are quite a number of arrogant cyclists illegally using woodland paths, very dangerous. They are often abusive.

We have a neighbour who would be interested in leading a walking party. He is self employed as a landscape gardener- would be very happy to be trained but would need to be compensated in some way.

1) I feel that there should be more in the way of seating.2) Dogs should be kept on leads where there is livestock grazing. 3) Signs should be more clearer to follow.

Addition of dog-poo bin at Farley Common has been great - perhaps another one by the road? I love the common and woods, being natural and just the common cut a couple of times a year. I would not like the area to become too formalised.

Heathland is rare in Kent and under pressure from development and degradation in the South East. Opportunities to remove non-ancient woodland to allow regeneration should be identified and pursued.

More information to be available- I did not know there were organised walks until I got tis today (19/07) when some of the walks had already happened.

If you improve the commons for more people to use them, their present peace and beauty will be destroyed. Unnecessary interference with nature and unneeded work creation at rate payers cost.

I live right by the edge of one of the commons. We do not want fences, cattle or unnecessary machines. Sevenoaks Common is the responsibility of Sevenoaks Town Council.

I love the commons and am amazed by how few people use them. There were once working environments and as such require management.

I am very sorry I can't make any of the walks. I am a carer for my husband who is in a wheelchair. Otherwise I would get much more involved and am all for preserving the natural world.

It's great that you doing some work in the area.

1-Prevent riders using paths that are NOT designated as bridleways.
2- Prevent cars driving into woodland & damaging tracks/paths through woods. 3- Look at ways to reduce the on going problem of Fly-tipping. 4-Increase number of dog waste bins.

Respondent lives in London and has skipped most of the questions.

Yes to improvements but gradually and in moderation.

No mention of waterways

June / July use weekly. Friday eve 7-9 20 scouts. Also Explorers - 15 (further words illegible)

Might be interested in joining a friends group, but not setting it up.

Don't have strong views on management - prefer to go with what (e.g.) Kent Wildlife would recommend. Could only help sporadically.

Drying out woodland/ better paths for horse riders. Our roads are getting too dangerous.

I'm involved with the friends of the Long Pond in Westerham, it would be good to exchange views / information and cooperate.

Great initiative, well worth supporting

Additional comment for Q.6 re grazing and fencing - "Strongly disagree - unless within the law". Also happy to write and give talks on Commons History.

Suggest you also consider "Bee Watch" activities - Google Bee watch and Bumblebee conservation for further info. Can be done on an individual or group basis.
